

SCRAPBOOKING

one month at a time

with Tami Taylor

July

A few facts (from Wikipedia.org):

- July gets its name from Julius Caesar, he was born this month. Aside from his fame for being murdered by his best friend, Julius Caesar was a well-respected author of prose. Unfortunately, much of his work outside of war commentaries is lost. His war commentaries were published regularly as 'dispatches from the front'. Let's celebrate Julius' birthday by writing our journaling in a commentary style. What inside scoop do you have from your 'front' view?
- In a common year, no other month ends on the same day as July. Is there any way you can end this month like no other? Perhaps a great mid-summer BBQ, an all-day scrapbook/art marathon or a trip somewhere? Think of something different to do this month than any other month in 2011.

Did you know?

July's birthstone is the ruby. It represents content. Very appropriate considering the goal of the month is to enjoy the lazy days of summer. They also are believed to bring good fortune, in some Asian countries they are placed beneath the foundations of structures. Do you have any beliefs or superstitions? Perhaps you should document these on a page.

By the Numbers:

Layouts finished: _____

Firecrackers Lit: _____

Slushies Drank: _____

Lazy Days: _____

Days spent in your swimsuit: _____

Sunsets Viewed: _____

JULY favorites

moment: _____
_____
_____

activity: _____
_____
_____

event: _____
_____
_____

thing: _____
_____
_____